Ratepayers voice support for hospital

by Russ Duhaime

A Minden ratepayers' association is offering its help in the drive to replace the community's aging hospital.

"I'm here to find out what we might do for the township to help the situation," Verne Gilbert told Minden Council last Thursday.

Gilbert is the chairman of the Coalition of Anson, Hindon and Minden Ratepayers' Association, which represents about 3,000 cottagers and residents.

"What can we do as a group?" Gilbert asked. The answer, however, is a difficult one for council to provide.

Reeve Bern Berry said it is his opinion that Minden will lose its hospital within five years if something isn't done to turn the tide. He noted that two separate consulting firms have commented on the aging hospital's ability to continue providing adequate services.

Berry also cast doubt on the hospital administration's interest in the facility. He noted that the administration of St. Joseph's Hospital claims that the hospital is operating at a deficit, while an independent audit shows a much different picture.

"I don't feel they (the administration) don't have the interest they'd have if they were attached more locally," said Berry. The hospital is owned by St. Joseph's General Hospital in Peterborough.

Deputy Reeve Lewis Stevens asked Gilbert if any of the association members has a medical background. He said council is at a disadvantage when dealing with the hospital administration because of their lack of experience in this field.

"When dealing with hospital CAOs we find ourselves at odds in how they interpret or feel about things," said Stevens. If there are any members of the association with expertise in this field, their input would be valuable, he said.

To date, council has had only one meeting with the hospital board. They made a presentation to the board in November offering to work co-operatively to resolve the local concerns. The board, however, has not taken up the offer.

Councillor Gerald Rome told Gilbert that Minden needs a strong lobby group to fight on behalf of the community. He said there are many people who are alive today because of the presence of the Minden hospital.

Gilbert says his association is willing to do whatever it takes to keep this hospital open. He said cottagers are as keenly interested in the hospital's future as permanent residents.

"We all get sick equally," he said. "Whether it's six months or 12 months, it doesn't matter."

More cash for trash

by Andy Holloway

Stiff tipping fees are becoming the latest rage among townships trying to squeeze out the last few metres of space in their rapidly filling dump sites.

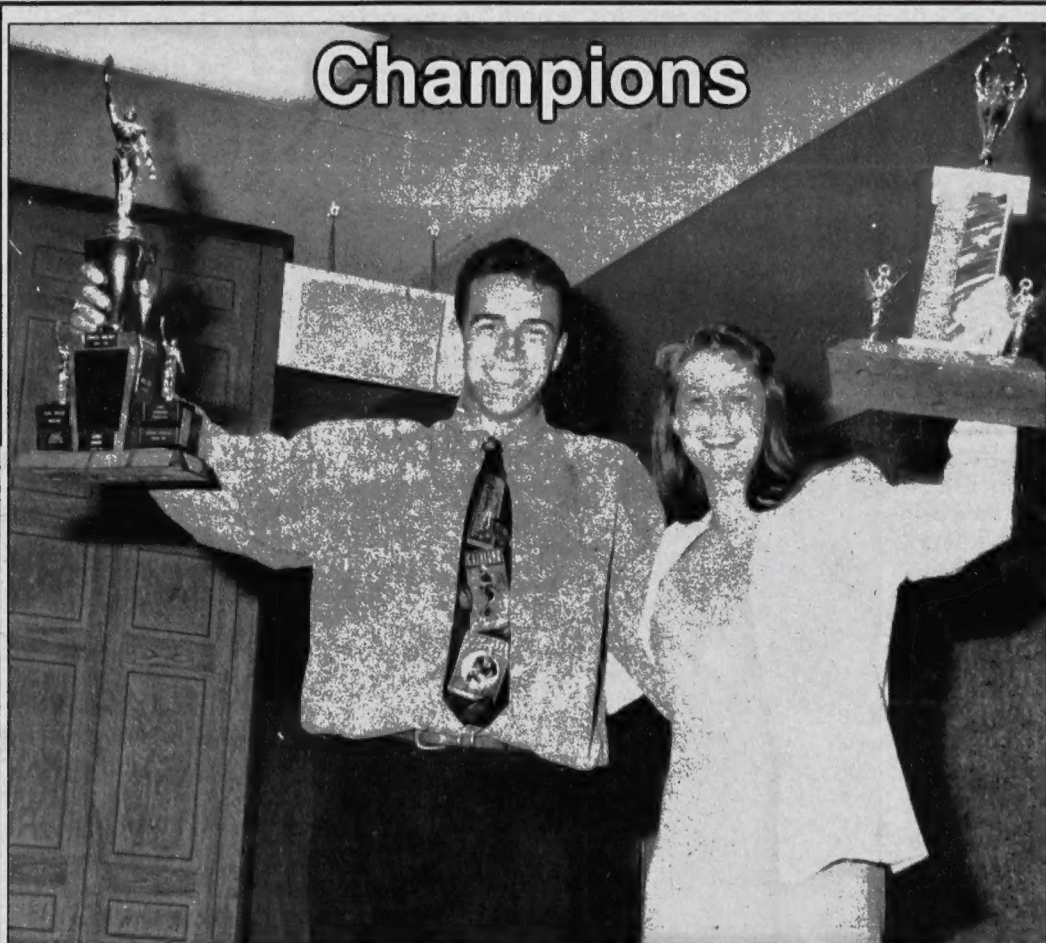

In the past few months several Haliburton municipalities have brought in some form of tipping fees, and now they're are only three in the county with cash free dump systems although Minden does not allow certain things like appliances to be dumped.

Late last month a new county study on tipping fees was completed and it recommends that all ten municipalities agree on and impose a uniform system of fees which should eliminate the temptation to do some cross-boundary dumping.

But the proposal needs all municipalities to agree before it can be put in place because the county can not force them to do it by law. Dumps are a legal responsibility of the individual municipality. County Planner Mark Stagg says, however, pending provincial legislation could change that fact. A proposed amendment to the Municipal Act would make it legal for the county to act unilaterally, as long as it had the majority of councils' votes, on an issue - tipping fees being one such issue.

Minden's 1989 response to Nazis called most effective in Canada

by Russ Duhaime

Minden's 1989 response to racist activities continues to be used as a blueprint for other communities to use in their battles with white supremacist factions.

When a reporter with the Kitchener-Waterloo Record went looking for information about effective community reactions to hate groups, the path led straight to Minden.

Record reporter Lesley Simpson said Minden's response to the 1989 Canada Day rally is being touted as a near-perfect reaction.

Simpson said there are communities in the U.S. that have effectively responded to racist groups, but none in Canada has been as effective as Minden.

tive as Minden.

In 1989 a former head of the Canadian Nazi party organized a recruitment rally on a property just outside of Minden's downtown core. Makeshift groups were formed in the Minden area to respond in a peaceful fashion to the hatred. Ultimately, enthusiasm for this rally fizzled and participation was limited to a few dozen teenage skinheads. Plans for subsequent rallies in Minden were also abandoned.

Minden's response to the 1989 activity was to have been featured as part of a feature story in Saturday's edition of the Record.

A white supremacy group is organizing a rock concert in the Kitchener area in an effort to recruit new members.

Teacher Steve Bannerman, right, led his students through a musical concert Wednesday evening at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. The teacher and young musicians were on an exchange visit from Winona Drive Senior Elementary School in Toronto. The group spent several days in the community, sharing musical talents with members of the grade eight band at the local school and taking part in a number of outdoor activities at area camps. Walter Barnes, who is a former music teacher at the Toronto school and a seasonal resident who recently took up permanent residence in the area, co-ordinated the exchange with Archie Stouffer music teacher Glen Carter.

McKnight ready for Hyland Crest

County CO takes over seniors' home at the end of month

After more than seven years as the county's clerk-treasurer and chief administrative officer, Gary McKnight is anxious to take on his next challenge as the administrator of Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home.

McKnight accepted this new position last month but was out of the county when the formal announcement was made on June 4. He will be replacing Rheta Jones when she retires from Hyland Crest at the end of this month.

One of the biggest challenges he foresees in his new role will be rebuilding staff morale at the home. He says the changing ministry regulations have taken their toll on staff morale. He says he wants to rebuild the pride of the staff and residents back up to the level he enjoyed during his previous sojourn at Hyland Crest.

McKnight served double duty for eight months as the county's CAO and Hyland Crest administrator prior to Jones' being hired. Since that time, he says morale

Minden community police office on line

New computer should increase police presence in the downtown area

by Andy Holloway

The Minden community policing program received a power boost when the Main Street office became computerized last Thursday.

Haliburton's community office has had an OMPPAC (Ontario, Municipal and Provincial Police Automation Cooperative) computer about a year ago while Minden waited for a new one from the province.

Lines for the computer were put in 18 months ago, but with recent budget cutbacks the funds for such equipment dried up. Minden OPP decided to computerize the office anyway by moving one of their old computers from the main office to Main Street.

Constable Brian Dunham, Minden's community officer, says the computer will allow him to be in the office more often and lend more of a police presence to the area.

"Every time I had to write up a report

I had to go up to the main office and so I was away for a few hours when I could have been here," says Dunham who readily admits the office was not used as it much as it could have been.

Local merchants and residents have complained since the office was built three years ago that there was rarely someone working inside. The computer will allow Dunham to stay in downtown Minden and he says it will also draw other officers into town on a regular basis because they will want to write up their reports in town where it's relatively peaceful. When in the office the door will be open and as Dunham says, "if it's open people will come in."

"The building will be open more often and it's going to be used in a proper fashion," says Dunham.

The office was built with funds from local service groups and under a provincial program encouraging community policing in rural areas. Dorset also has a community police office.

Constable Brian Dunham, Minden's community police officer shows how the OMPPAC computer system works. Dunham says system will allow officers to be in the office more often which should help allay criticism that it is underused.

Board to expand office by moving portable from Victoria Street

by Andy Holloway

Board of education staff will soon be breathing a little easier as a portable will be moved from Victoria Street to ease crowded office conditions.

The cost of the move is expected to be about $1,400 and will be done when the portables at Archie Stouffer are moved since all of the equipment will be in the county. A further $8,600 will be used to refurbish the portable and link it up with the present board building. The government was to fund the move, but it has now withdrawn such grants.

The portable will be used primarily as a meeting place for the board and its committees and will house some of the mountains of files currently cluttering up the main office. However, not all trustees were pleased with the move.

Management committee chair Leonard Salvatori said the move would be a step backward because the board was not improving its property, but detracting from it.

Nancy Stinson said having trustees meet in the addition could cause traffic problems with people roaming through the main building trying to get to the addition.

Education director Brad Saunders said the ideal situation would be to have a permanent addition built, however the current economic times are such that it would be inappropriate. The only cost-effective way to create space and economize as well is to add the portable for the short term.

The current meeting room will be used to house a secretary and the board's new speech pathologist.

Lloyd Griffiths said administration and its staff should be all be in one place and that the portable was adequate.

"It's my personal feeling that if portables are good enough for the children to sit in then it should be good enough for the board to sit in."

Salvatori said he understood why the portable was necessary and the committee recommended the move.

McKnight on the move to Hyland Crest has dropped through no fault of the administration. He said the problem has been with the changing Ministry of Health guidelines for the operation of such facilities.

"Nobody likes change," he says, "but change is upon us."

McKnight says he has enjoyed his job as the county's CAO. However, he also enjoyed working at Hyland Crest and is looking forward to his new position.

He said he has worked closely with Jones over the past three years and is aware of all the changes that have occurred — and are still occurring.

In addition to the changing guidelines, McKnight says he is concerned about the implications of the province's social contract. No one is sure about what will result from this initiative. However, McKnight says there isn't a lot of room in Hyland Crest's budget to absorb many cutbacks.

Prior to hiring on with the county, McKnight owned and operated Haliburton Marine.

He served for 10 years on Dysart Council — 18 months of which were spent as deputy reeve.

MNR is ready to burn

by Andy Holloway

Forest fires can be awesomely destructive against vegetation, wildlife and humans, but they can also be harnessed to help reforest areas depleted by logging interests in years gone by.

Since the late 1960s the Ministry of Natural Resources has been creating forest fires in selective areas in order to plant certain species of trees that have trouble growing in normal conditions, but are considered more valuable than the trash wood that grows in areas that have been harvested.

Two years ago the MNR conducted a prescribed burn around Kushog Lake and 60,000 white pine seedlings were planted. Of those trees, up to 90 per cent are expected to survive. In the Highlands, white pines are the tree of choice for the MNR because soil conditions are perfect for the growth of them, but logging has eliminated much of the natural stands.

At the turn of the century, about 50 per cent of local forests were made up of white pine, which now account for around 10 per cent. White pine seedlings can only make a stand if they have two or three years of competition-free conditions in which to grow.

This year, the MNR is doing two prescribed burns assuming of course the weather cooperates. Last year the MNR had to cancel a 38 hectare burning because of all the rain this county experienced.

The burn was to take place 15 kilometres south-east of Kinmount between St. Croix Lake and Crystal Lake, which had been logged for pine and poplar seven years previously. That site is one of the two burns set for this year, the other being near Anson Lake (also called Montgomery or Long Lake) in Hindon Township. As well as white pine, some spruce will also be planted in the spring of 1994.

MNR official Peter Hynard says that even though the Crystal Lake site was prepared two years ago, little work had to be done this year to get it ready even though the MNR added another 67 hectares which was logged during the winter.

The MNR is also doing a special study on the Crystal Lake site to track fire behaviour, revegetation and planted tree performance using three different preparation techniques, two of which do not involve using herbicides which have been traditionally used to kill off the old growth.

"We're trying to refine our system to reduce herbicide use and to save

"As a newcomer, I can relate well with our Golden Rule philosophy of service 'Do unto others as you would want others to do unto you'."

A candid talk about the funeral profession with Barry A. Cray.

Barry A. Cray

"As an apprentice funeral director with Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, my job is to learn as much about funeral service as I can in one year. But if I could sum up everything I've learned to date, it would have to be our Golden Rule philosophy of service.

"I suppose because I didn't grow up in the funeral service profession, I can relate well with this philosophy. Many people who aren't familiar with funeral service or aren't sure what to expect at least want to be treated fairly—the same way they would treat others.

"At Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, that's what our Golden Rule philosophy is all about. Friendly, caring, compassionate service from people who do more than simply try to meet your needs, but try to sincerely understand them.

"And I'm learning more about this philosophy everyday. As a member of the International Order of the Golden Rule, we have a chance to associate with funeral homes from around the world who share in the same high standards of service. Service measured not by gold but by the Golden Rule."

Uniform trash tipping fees on the horizon

That would allow the county to take over a much wider area of concern with relation to waste management and possibly take over the entire dump system.

This may not sit well with everyone, but Stagg says he believes the system would work.

"I personally have always had the belief that a county is rather like a family of municipalities. We all live in the one home, or physical county, and we really have to work together so that usually when there's a dispute in the family they sit down at the table and sort it out. If a problem arises here then the same will happen."

In any case, Stagg says a municipality that does not have tipping fees may soon find a "huge surge of things coming into their landfill sites by whatever means people can sneak it in," even though most have card systems in place.

Most of the townships already have a limited tipping schedule, however the county plan is much wider in scope. Some areas would have to add fees not currently collected while others would have to adjust their rates accordingly. An example would be in Dysart where an appliance costs $15 to be dumped while under the county proposal they could charge only $10. Currently Dysart does not collect fees for brush, but under the proposal it would have to collect anywhere from $7 to $75 for varying amounts of brush.

One of the three municipalities without fees is Stanhope whose three dump sites, with the exception of Hawk Lake, are not manned. Cardiff also does not have fees while Minden directs people to Harding Scrap which charges a fee so in effect Minden residents have to pay tipping fees.

But for a township to introduce tipping fees without having manned dumps is rather counter-productive as no one is there to make sure the rules are being enforced and to collect the money. However, Clerk Gerald Bain said the township has had discussions about implementing tipping fees, but not in the near future. He agreed that the sites would have to be manned first.

After seeing the county report on fees Stanhope

Reeve Fred Gardner, who favours tipping fees, said another reason for waiting is public education about the fees. "For us to put them in the earliest effective date would be April 1, 1994. If we tried to do it now through advertising alone we would have nothing but problems."

However, deputy-reeve Eleanor Harrison said if the rest of the county went ahead with a wide range of tipping fees Stanhope or any other potential stragglers would have to join in otherwise they would be getting everyone else's garbage.

One argument against tipping fees is that if introduced it would increase the number of people who pollute the environment by stashing their garbage in lakes, forests and anywhere else. Stagg says this has happened in other municipalities who have had tipping fees, but that it is not a "massive problem". In fact, he says some people try and get rid of their garbage in a more constructive way to avoid the fees.

"When fees were first introduced in a municipality I was in about 17 years ago, we watched very closely for a number of months to see what was happening," says Stagg. "I think the only thing we noticed was that there was an incentive for construction companies who instead of taking fill to the landfill sites were finding people who needed clean fill to improve their land, so there was some diversion there which was quite satisfactory."

Stagg also says that among the county's municipalities who have fees already there have been few complaints, judging by the lack of letters to the media and the townships themselves.

Dysart reeve, and county warden, Chris Hodgson says he favours tipping fees and that his municipality has had them for quite a while without any major problems.

"We were the first ones to put in tipping fees and we took all of the flak for it, but now everyone is following behind," says Hodgson.

Dysart charges for things such as appliances and tires, but also has an extensive recycling program to help save dump space. The money collected for, say, tires goes towards the cost of getting rid of them which can be substantial because of the remoteness of the county from major recycling industries.

Getting rid of the garbage that is sent to the dump is a major problem. Recyclable materials are only recyclable if there is an end market for them. The markets that currently exist are far away from this county and therefore the cost of getting rid of things like tires and metal appliances is higher. Stagg says this is one area where cooperative ventures between individual municipalities can help smooth the way. A prime example being Dysart's compactor which could be shared among the other areas who would then pay a fee to Dysart for the privilege. This too has problems because it would be costly and time consuming to move the compactor around so cardboard would have to be shipped to Dysart.

Local councils are currently seeing the county's report for the first time and have been asked to make recommendations and suggestions by July 5. After that the resolution may be submitted to council if remarks are generally positive which Stagg says he believes will happen.

Big wheels help fight cystic fibrosis

Cyclists from Minden area helped in the battle against cystic fibrosis Sunday (June 6) and had a good time doing it.

The riders were participating in the fifth annual Family Cystic Fibrosis Bike-athon. The event drew 48 participants, who took advantage of the ideal conditions to pedal from the Minden fair grounds to the Rackety Trail on the Deep Bay Road, and then back to town.

This year's event, co-ordinated by the Kinsmen Club of Minden, attracted 48 participants. Prior to the ride, the cyclists gathered pledges from family and friends. When the donations were totalled the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was $3086.20 richer thanks to the efforts of the cyclists and sponsors.

Following the ride, the Kinsmen provided the participants with a light lunch at the fair grounds.

The greatest amount in pledges was turned in by Joel Fisher who collected $708 for the cause. He also received the plaque for the top junior boy. The top junior girl was Kattie Brown with $63, top senior girl, Sarah Bloomfield with $96 and senior boy Rod Upton at $39.50. Brenda Walker led the adult contingent with pledges totalling $265.25.

Sarah Bloomfield served as student co-ordinator at Archie Stouffer Elementary School with assistance from Kinsmen Andy Poldas and Roger Yearwood.

Among the recipients were, from the left, Sarah Bloomfield, who also served as student co-ordinator at Archie Stouffer Elementary School, Kattie Brown and Joel Fisher. Minden council helps Legion spruce up county cairn

The following items were briefly addressed at the June 7 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships Council.

Landscaping

The Minden Legion is sprucing up the appearance of the county cairn with the assistance of a $300 grant from Minden Council.

Ken Walsh approached council asking for assistance in the Legion's efforts to spruce up the grounds surrounding the cairn. He said he has a work party ready to go to work on the grounds adjacent to the Minden library. They will be pulling up the weeds and possibly tilling the soil. He asked council if it would be willing to provide the funding to purchase new sod for the grounds.

Council agreed to the request, and passed a resolution offering up to $300 for this purpose. The funding will come from the capital budget for the library/cultural centre.

Bright Lights

Ingoldsby will be getting a new street light to illuminate the area's main intersection.

Council agreed to place a new light in the community upon the request of a local resident. Reeve Bern Berry said he visited the intersection one evening last week and agrees that the lighting should be improved.

Council will also be looking into a request by a Carnarvon area resident for improved lighting in that part of the municipality.

Sharing lunch with a few friends is a great way to spend a noon hour. So Scott Dedman, left, and Sam Little discovered last Thursday when they were joined on the HHSS football field by some Canada geese. The students were able to determine that their feathered friends enjoyed the cafeteria fare but their table manners left something to be desired. The boys also learned the geese had a problem distinguishing between the food and fingers.

Ministry needs sunshine, no humidity and no rain costs," says Hynard.

"The secret to doing it without herbicide is promptness after logging so that we still have considerable amount of fuel, especially the tree tops, left by the loggers and get them well-cured and dried out."

The two sites will not be burned at the same time. It takes time to move the men and equipment over from one site to the other although it is predicted the burns will take place in late July.

There is also a slight difference in what will be planted at the two sites. The Crystal Lake site will be getting mainly white pine with some white spruce while the Hindon site will get hemlock in addition to the pine and spruce because of its soil conditions.

"One of the big differences is that the Hindon site is within the Hindon deer yard which is one of the reasons we want to put hemlock back there. It is also a good hemlock site and there was hemlock there before," says Hynard.

However, Mother Nature still has to play her part well if the burns are to take place. Right now, Hynard says they need about three weeks of "reasonable weather" with reasonable being defined as being low in humidity with minimal cloud cover rain fall - which sounds like the weather everyone wants to see.

A weather station has been set up near the sites to monitor changing weather, soil and fuel moisture conditions to determine the exact time of the burn.

The MNR warns that if you see smoke or helicopter activity in either areas between now and the August, do not go for a closer look.

Access to the burn site will be sealed and any extra traffic will only impede MNR crews from doing their job of controlling the fire.

Dump fees

Municipalities in this county should think long and hard about the consequences of imposing a full-scale tipping fee schedule at the dumps before moving ahead with this proposal.

Charging a fee to dispose of garbage has its merits, but it also encourages random dumping. A $5 fee to dispose of tires, for example, will certainly dissuade some from taking them to the dump. The fee, however, will not slow the wear of tires. Therefore, we can only assume that discarded tires will either be collecting in people's yards or littering roadsides and abandoned fields.

The same holds true for worn-out appliances, construction materials and car parts. Many residents will balk at the prospect of paying a tipping fee. Instead, they will regress to the old ways of discarding these items out behind the barn, in the field or in the woods.

Take a hike along any of the stone walls bordering the old pastures of this county and you're sure to find remnants of farm equipment, bottles and broken china — items that are now viewed more as treasures than trash. However, we doubt that discarded tires and refrigerators will have the same appeal.

Tipping fees may work well in urban areas where it is difficult to hide an old freezer on a postage-stamp-sized patch of land. However, the same is not true of Haliburton County, where many of the properties are several acres in size. Here, we are apt to find the appeal of our country landscape marred by the creation of dozens of new junkyards.

Sure, we have property standards by-laws that prohibit the collection of such wastes. However, these by-laws are difficult and costly to enforce.

On the positive side, tipping fees would provide municipalities with the financial resources to properly deal with this sort of waste. It promotes recycling efforts and slows the rate at which our dumps are being filled.

If, however, the price we pay to preserve our dumps is the littering of our countryside, we feel the price is too high.

In order to make this work, municipalities would have to put more clout into their property standards by-laws and ensure they are being strictly enforced. In addition, they should launch a public information campaign in order to promote voluntary compliance with the by-laws.

Until municipalities have the will and the means to take this action, the concept of full-scale tipping fees should be shelved.

Does Cher melt in the rain?

Some random thoughts occurred while drinking yet another cup of sweet, hot java on one of those late nights in the Highlands that seemingly have little to offer.

Not much on television, of course I only get one channel so it's a bit hard to get some variety although I do like those paid info-commercials.

"Yes, how does Cher get such soft looking skin?" I and millions others ask themselves nightly.

Maybe she's wearing another person's skin.

Poor lady, of 'nian', walking around completely skinless while Cher basks in the sun. The great thing about it is that once the husk has withered Cher can get another one, and probably frequent flyer bonus points as well. Money can't buy you happiness, but it can sap someone else's pretty quickly.

Anyway, at least we know it's nearly summer time.

8:03 a.m. Saturday, "Today is going to be another gorgeous day in cottage country as it will be sunny and warm all day long. And now we're going to play the same four songs back to back for the rest of the day," a radio announcer shrilly

Rantin' n' Ravin'

by Andy Holloway

informed me as my bleary-from-too-much-late-night-talk eyes became accustomed to the morning.

8:04 a.m., look out window, it's pouring rain - figures.

8:05 a.m., commence rapid-fire swearing. Luckily, no one is killed in the barrage of bad language although a few are wounded.

8:06 a.m., resign myself to another shut-in day.

On the up side of things, several deer (deers?) and moose (mooses?) have been spotted playfully taunting traffic along major highways. It took over a year, but I finally found some wildlife - other than that which is flattened into roadkill pancakes.

Wanted: Community doctor who cares

Editor:

In response to the article written about Dr. Dawson in the Toronto Star, June 9, page A15.

I think the province should limit every doctor to one practice and not letting doctors like Dawson own and operate one to five clinics.

In the article, Dawson says his patients have to wait two hours to see him. I say to Dawson, what happened to the family doctor he was when he bought this practice in Minden when he got to know his patients and had time for them.

We the people of Minden would like to have a family doctor not a change of doctors. One that cares about us and our community.

If you, Dawson, do not want to be a family doctor then you should sell your practice so we can have our family doctor back.

We don't want someone who is a doctor to make money like a franchise business.

Maple Leafs' fan takes his hockey seriously

Editor:

With regard to the "He who laugh at Leafs..." article in the June 7 issue, I have a few questions for you. If you had such strong convictions that the Leafs would not win the Stanley Cup, why were they kept hidden until after the fact? Since everyone knows that hindsight is 20/20, I can say that Pittsburgh will not three-peat and the Flyers won't even make the post-season. Anyone that was as certain as you say you were would have certainly published the article well before Toronto was eliminated.

Being an avid Leaf fan for more than a decade, I leave you with this: Everyone is allowed to have an opinion about the Leafs, but I believe there is no great line-up to hear yours. Also, it is a real shame you weren't born in Philly, then you could go home.

Chris Todd

P.S. The Leafs deserve a lot more credit than you give them. And speaking of morons, check out a mirror.

Editor's note: "Everyone is allowed to have an opinion about the Leafs, but....."

Go ahead punk, make Arthur's day

I hear rumours that Clint Eastwood plans to do another Dirty Harry movie.

I can't pretend that I'm surprised. It must be easy work. When he portrays that ne-er-do-well, rogue San Francisco detective Harry Callaghan all Clint has to do is squint a lot, adjust his sunglasses from time to time and blow away bad guys with his .44 Magnum.

I can't say that I'm surprised either that Dirty Harry movies continue to be box office dynamite. They flog the same commodity offered by the Death Wish movies Charles Bronson sleepwalks through every couple of years - simple, Old Testament solutions to modern problems. In the world of Death Wish and Dirty Harry the lesson is always cut and dried and the bad guys are always badder than bad. They're scum, ergo, gun them down.

Would that real life be so simple. Would that modern justice were even in the ball park.

The other day on my television Oprah was interviewing a prison inmate who had just been sentenced for dealing heroin.

"What did the judge give you?" asked Oprah.

"Eighteen years," said the prisoner.

"And when do you get out?"

"I'm eligible for parole next summer."

And the TV audience laughed! That's how cynical we've become about the courts and justice. That's why a little cheer leaps unbidden to the back of our throat when we see Dirty Harry short circuit a legal system that's constipated to the point of immobility. Hooray - here comes simple, monosyllabic Harry dispensing instant "justice" in lethal lead capsules. It's stupid. It's fantasy. But it works.

by Arthur Black

And the news we get from the courts doesn't seem calculated to make Six Gun Justice any less attractive. Some time ago I wrote about the despondent New Yorker who tried to kill himself by jumping in front of a subway train. He lived - albeit as a quadriplegic. When he recovered sufficiently, the would-be suicide sued the New York Transit Authority for a million dollars, claiming the Authority had failed to protect him.

He won, too.

Last month, a woman sued the Chicago rapid transit system over the death of her husband. And how had he died, exactly? Well, while waiting for his train he urinated over the tracks.

Right on the electrified rail.

The wife sued for neglect, claiming $1.5 million would go a long way towards allaying her grief.

She won, too.

Ah, but every so often the universe unfolds the way it ought to. I give you the tale of Dwight Coverson, would-be Mississippi rapist. One night Dwight broke into a house in Jackson and found himself in the bedroom of a 50-year-old unprotected woman.

Perfect!

Dwight jumped on the woman, slapped her around, cursed her, and when he had her thoroughly frightened, took off his clothes. Which is when the woman grabbed him in, what would have been an intimate embrace if it hadn't been quite so...energetic.

There are no names in jiu jitsu for the hold the woman put on the man. You won't see it employed by members of the World Wrestling Federation. Suffice to say it was two-handed, vice-like and extremely painful.

"Please, please," whimpered Dwight, "you're killing me!"

"Die then," said the woman.

"Woman, you got me suffering."

"Have you thought about how you were going to leave me suffering," the woman replied. With a twist.

Dwight Coverson finally managed to break free and get away, but he wasn't hard to find. Police just followed the crawl marks in the dirt. They led right to Coverson's house. Police found him in bed, in great pain.

I don't know how Dirty Harry would feel about it, but a story like that sure makes my day.

Minden wants to keep home renewal program

Tipping Fees

Council postponed its deliberations on a proposal for county-wide tipping fees until its next meeting.

County planner Mark Stagg has put together a proposal for uniform tipping fees at the county's dumps. He has sent copies of the proposal to each municipality in order to get their feedback.

Because of the length of the agenda for Thursday's meeting, Reeve Berry suggested that this issue be tabled until June 24. He said it deserves more attention than the time constraints of Thursday's agenda would allow.

Home renewal

Minden Council will be asking the province to maintain the Ontario Home Renewal Program, at least in this community.

Reeve Berry said the program, which provides loans to low-income home owners, is being phased out by the province. The rationale behind the cancellation of the program is that there is a low number of applications for these loans across the province.

Reeve Berry said the interest level for this program in Minden is quite high. He said there are many people in Minden living well below the poverty line who make good use of this program to maintain their homes.

Since 1978 Minden has administered 80 loan applications for more than $260,000. Typical projects include the replacement of leaky roofs, correction of fire hazards and replacement of contaminated wells.

"It's a good program," said Berry. "OHRP loans are needed here. I think we should be a special area."

Councillor Jean Anthon said these loans should continue to be offered in areas that have a history of good use of this program.

PAMELA ANN MACKINNON, B.A.Sc.

Mr. and Mrs. Norm Mackinnon of South Lake are proud to announce the recent graduation of their daughter Pam, who graduated from the University of Guelph with a Bachelor of Applied Science degree in the four year Honours Program. Pam was awarded the degree "With Honours" standing from the college of Family and Consumer Studies where she majored in Child Studies.

Pam attended public school in Matheson, Ontario and at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. She attended high school at East Elgin Secondary School in Aylmer, Ontario.

Pam will be continuing her education at the Masters level pursuing a career in Speech Pathology.

Hot time, summer in the county

The down side of this influx of deer is that it is a large mass of bugs who are driving them out of hiding. "Run for your lives" screams a deer at the top of its lungs to its cohorts as a swarm of wee beasties attacks. Of course they don't hear him because deer are fairly quiet animals, so they all suffer a veritable plethora of bites. We humans are next once the nasty pests have depleted the deer stock.

Speaking of little guys, which we weren't but are now, it seems true that the tiniest guys have the biggest voices. Take Cardiff, the second smallest municipality in the Highlands, for example as one such cranially retentive small guy.

First, they want out of the county chamber, then they want out of the taxing system and now Dan Rivett resigns from council. There are some major cities and groups that don't have that kind of turmoil in a year let alone a few months.

One corporation that has endured much turmoil over the years is Canada Post, some of it deserved. The Times just received its copy of the annual report, a lovely 80 page, glossy tome with colour photos and beautiful graphs. Then there's the regular newsletter that is mailed to us, on time I might add, advertising the latest in philatelic purchases. Money can't buy you happiness, they say, but it sure doesn't help when your money buys posties silly stuff.

Pitter, patter go the sound of tiny rain drops.

Rain, rain, go away, come again some other day - preferably in October.

Truck pull

The Kinsmen Truck Pull will not be this Saturday as the chamber events guide states, but will occur on August 14 with a dance, buffet and a country band following the event.

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School honoured its most valuable players in the athletic arena at a banquet last Tuesday night at the Haliburton Legion. This year, Chris Greenfield and Jenn Bradford were named the best.

Greenfield, Bradford top athletes

Haliburton High's top athletes were presented with awards and praise last Tuesday during the annual awards banquet at the Haliburton Legion.

Jenn Bradford and Chris Greenfield took top honours in this celebration of athletic prowess.

Bradford, a fierce competitor on the school's field hockey, track, volleyball and badminton teams, is 1993's female athlete of the year. She was also named the most valuable offensive player on the field hockey team.

Greenfield, who participated on the school's football, hockey, badminton and track teams, was a leading contender for MVP in each of these sports, said vice-principal Gary Brohman. He won the MVP honours for his performance on the track team, where he competed in the 400, 200, and 100 metre sprints. He was also a member of the relay team.

In addition to these awards, Greenfield was one of two winners of this year's Awards of Excellence. This award honours outstanding contributions to the school's athletic program.

Chris Bradford also received an award of excellence for his contributions between 1988 and 1993.

The following are the Most Valuable Players on the school's various sports teams:

This year's winners of the cumulative minor athletic awards were Dawn Hebert, Jenna Stutt, Jamie Keefer, Endres Weber and Derek Wilson.

The guest speaker at this year's banquet was Mark Tewksbury, an Olympic gold medal winning swimmer. Although his presence was in the form of a videotaped presentation to some other school, the audience found this emotionally-charged video to be rivetting.

Redmen help Kawarthas to victory

by Oliver Greer

The Kawartha League All-Stars, led by a strong Haliburton Highlands Secondary School contingent, defeated a select team from Belleville in an all-star football game last Sunday in Belleville.

Haliburton stole the offensive show with the help of Crestwood quarterback Matt Turner. The team combined for 38 points while Belleville could only get 14. Chris Greenfield and Andy Bacon, both HHSS players, scored Kawartha's first three touchdowns. Some of the credit, however, must be given to the excellent blocking accomplished by an offensive line anchored by tight end Greg Brohman, also of HHSS.

Early in the game Greenfield snagged a 30 yard pass from Turner to put Kawartha on the board with seven points.

Later, Bacon received a hand-off from Turner and burst through the Belleville line. After breaking a tackle Bacon thundered 40 yards to give Kawartha their second touchdown.

Next, with the ball on the Kawartha 50 yard line, Turner hit Greenfield with a picture perfect touchdown pass. Greenfield didn't even have to break stride to make the reception.

Several other noteworthy performances were put in by other Haliburton athletes. Greg Brohman was solid all day at tight end and made a key block on a screen pass that resulted in a touchdown, which was unfortunately called back because of a clipping penalty behind the play.

On defense, Derek Wilson pressured the Belleville back field with an effective pass rush at right corner back. Wilson stifled the Belleville rushing attack up the right side and made a key tackle on the Belleville quarterback who had been flushed out of the pocket. Jerry Cooper put in a very solid performance at cornerback. Cooper's play was highlighted by a hard earned blocked punt on the final play of the game.

On a more unfortunate note, junior Redmen sack master Peter Brohman suffered a dislocated shoulder during warm-ups and was unable to play at middle linebacker.

Redmen show well against Ontario's best

Seven athletes from Haliburton Highlands performed beyond expectations at the Ontario track finals last week. From top right: Andy Bacon, Shane Sisson, Tim Stouffer, Chris Greenfield, Anna Tomlinson and Jason Simmons, missing from the picture is Endres Weber whose pole vault event was cancelled because of the wet and windy weather.

Greenfield finishes 6th in 400 metre run

by Oliver Greer

The OFSAA track finals last Friday and Saturday marked the end of another very successful season for the Haliburton Highlands Redmen track team.

Coach Paul Morissette said the last three or four years have been very successful and that this year the athletes were able to maintain or perhaps improve on that level of success.

The Redmen picked up an astounding 14 gold medals in COSSA competition. Of the 45 athletes who competed at the COSSA level 28 qualified for the Eastern Regionals and seven competed at the Ontario finals.

Senior Chris Greenfield was one of the more outstanding athletes for Haliburton this year. Greenfield placed sixth in the 400 metre run to record Haliburton's best finish at OFSAA. He also competed in the 200 metre sprint and on the boys 4X400 metre relay team.

Endres Weber was scheduled to compete in the senior boys pole vault, but due to bad weather and high winds the event was cancelled because of the danger to the athletes, some of whom would be vaulting over four metres. Weber's event was rescheduled for last Saturday, but results were not available at press time. Morissette said he had high hopes that Weber would be able to place in the top six at the event.

Tim Stouffer, who competed in the midget boys javelin, had a great year and still has many years to hone his skills in high school track and field, but he didn't place this year at the event.

The surprise success story of the season has to be the boys 4x400 metre relay team. In the last few years the team got a lot of hype and usually lived up to it. This year, however, the team lost two of its top guns with the graduation of Bart Given and Eric Johnson. Andy Bacon and Greenfield were still there but nobody knew if Shane Sisson and Jason Simmons could fill the shoes left by Given and Johnson.

Parks open up to disabled

Since 1992, the Ministry of Natural Resources has cut in half its camping and day-use fees for those who have mobility or visual impairments to encourage them to use provincial parks more.

The MNR is continuing to renovate existing facilities and ensuring that new facilities in its provincial parks will be able to accommodate the needs of disabled people. Today, 90 of the 109 operating parks offer facilities for visitors with disabilities.

This year, the MNR is spending $1.5 million - $1 million of which is coming from Jobs Ontario capital funding - to make parks more accessible. The rest of the funding comes from the MNR's regular capital budget and the province's Barrier-Free Access Program. A total of 32 parks are undertaking barrier-free projects.

The MNR is encouraging disabled people to call ahead when planning to go camping or visit a provincial park and let park staff know about their special needs.

More information can be found in the 1993 Ontario Provincial Parks Guide available at MNR district offices, Ontario Travel Information Centres and the Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (416-314-6557).

Nearby parks that have facilities accessible by disabled persons include: Balsam Lake in Kirkfield, Petroglyphs and Serpent Mounds in Peterborough, Emily in Lindsay and Arrowhead in Huntsville.

Haliburton breaks out for first soccer win

Haliburton Westside Jug City finally cracked the win column with a 2-0 victory over the Midland Strikers last Sunday.

The win was the first in five tries for Haliburton who had not been able to score more than one goal in any of their previous games and came at home.

Scoring for Haliburton were Hans Walter and Cecil Smith, each with his first goal of the year. The win means Haliburton no longer occupies last place alone, they now share it with the Strikers who are the only team not to win a game this season although they do have two ties.

Earlier that week, Haliburton had dropped its fourth straight losing an away game 3-0 to the Bracebridge Centennials, another of the Muskoka District League's top teams, on June 3. Mark Quemby scored two for Bracebridge, which is Haliburton's nearest rival.

If Haliburton is to continue its winning ways it must first find a way to score more goals. So far the team has scored just four goals, tied for the worst in the league with (guess who?) the Midland Strikers. Defence has been less of a problem as the team has given up just 10 goals so far.

Haliburton is at home this Thursday night.

Athletic awards night a success as end of school year nears

As the school year comes to an end you may notice most of our kids in the "freak out" stage because they are either finished and ready for summer or they are right in the middle of exams.

This year has gone by very quickly although some students, and even more teachers, may tend to disagree.

To celebrate the year end on the athletic side of things, the annual awards night took place last Tuesday.

The ceremony was again a huge success with all of the coaches and many of the players and their parents coming together to give each other recognition of their efforts.

The evening was capped off with the athletes of the year presentation. For the girls, this year's athlete of the year was the very bouncy and energetic Jenn Bradford. Jenn played field hockey, volleyball, badminton and in many track and field events.

For the guys, Chris Greenfield was chosen as athlete of the year. Chris played football, hockey, badminton and numerous track and field events. All evening long, Chris was referred to by his coaches as a "very special athlete."

Congratulations to both Jenn and Chris!

So another year comes to an end. Don't worry parents, your kids will become quasi-normal soon (I know that's what my mother is hoping). To all the kids - see you in 77 days for the beginning of a new school year, football and field hockey practice.

Track coach impressed with troops

Sisson and Simmons proved to be up to the task and the relay team recorded a personal best time of 45.0 seconds despite not qualifying for the finals.

Anna Tomlinson had her second great athletic year in a row. At COSSA Tomlinson competed in the long jump, triple jump and hurdles, and came away with gold medals in the long and triple jumps. At the all-Ontario championships Tomlinson recorded a tenth place finish in the triple jump and a ninth place finish in the long jump, and had personal bests in each of her final jumps.

It is also important to note that Tomlinson will still be competing as a junior next year.

Other athletes having successful seasons included junior Betty Verhovany who received a gold medal in the long jump at the COSSA competition and had strong performances on the relay teams and in her other events.

Cindy Brodhagen, also a junior, is the school's first serious female distance runner, said Morissette. Brodhagen ran to a bronze medal at COSSA under the coaching of Marcus Carl who was a distance runner on the University of Guelph track team. Brodhagen is planning to run with Carl all summer which should make her performance even better next year, said Morissette.

Overall, Morissette said he was really encouraged by the level of enthusiasm and commitment made by this year's crop of athletes with more than 50 students showing up regularly for practices. This season was plagued by particularly miserable weather, but the students managed to take it in stride and still turn in high level performances.

"We were strong on the track, but we also had jumpers, shot putters and so on who competed very strongly which was very encouraging."

Track and field has really put the Highlands on the map said Morissette. The team's red and white jerseys are perceived as a challenge and get a lot of respect from schools all over the province.

The impersonated stars are coming to Norland

Connie Burton (a.k.a. Dolly Parton) will be among the entertainers from the Keith Burton Band who will be in Norland on Saturday, August 14. The show features 22 impersonations from Dolly to Michael Jackson. Proceeds will go to the children's recreation programs within the municipality.

Keith Burton Band features 22 impersonations

by Jerry Grozelle

Tribute, featuring the Keith Burton Band will be performing at the Norland Recreation Centre on Saturday, August 14.

The band is more than the average dance band. Burton and company do 22 full-dress impersonations over the course of the four-hour show.

Imagine the likes of Dolly Parton, Buddy Holly, Roy Orbison, Elvis Presley, Willy Nelson, Madonna, The Boss, Michael Jackson, Whitney Houston, Garth Brooks, Gloria Estefan, Patsy Cline, Sonny and Cher, Tina Turner and others on the same stage over the course of one evening.

The show offers something for everybody, from old rock and roll to country to '80s selections and finally, some soft contemporary music.

"The show has a really wide appeal as far as age groups go," says band leader Keith Burton. "We do a lot of dances and shows where there is a high school age crowd and they seem to love it. We do an awful lot of convention work too, where the crowd is middle-aged and above."

The Burton Band is an impressive and versatile group. Keith and his sister Connie Burton are the nucleus of the band, with Carolyn Plettell, James Clark and Chris McHardy rounding out the fivesome. The Burtons are from the Peterborough area while Plettell (of Lethbridge), Clarke (of Vancouver) and McHardy (of Ottawa) are all living in the Toronto area now.

The band plays all over North America, but the majority of its performances are at conventions in Toronto and Montreal.

Plettell was a Michael Jackson impersonator full time until about five years ago. Burton said that his band did a show in Calgary and he caught her act after his own show.

"She was just fantastic," Burton said. "I made her an offer on the spot."

Connie, Keith and Carolyn do the impersonations while James and Chris are the guitar player and drummer, respectively.

Performing keeps the group busy.

"We do 150 to 160 one-nighters a year," Burton said. "We do a lot of open dances and shows at fairs and arenas in the summer but about 80 per cent is convention work."

During the summer months the band is on the road an average of four or five nights a week.

Proceeds from the show in Norland will go toward children's recreational activities in the municipality. The bar will be open and a light lunch will be provided.

Tickets are $10 advance and are available from the Laxton, Digby and Longford Township office. For more information, call 454-3418.

Post Card

CORRESPONDENCE

ADDRESS

Wish you were here

by Russ Duhaime.

With hundreds of children migrating to the Highlands summer camp each year, you'd think this area would be a mecca for post

Post card popularity fizzling out

Think again. The variety of postcards of this area is so limited that moms and dads who have never visited their children's summer retreats must be wondering just what kind of back-woods hole-in-the-wall this Haliburton County place must be.

The incredible Highlands landscape with its hills, lakes and trees has inspired many a shutterbug to blow off more than a few rolls of film. However, when it comes to post cards you're left with the impression that there's only two good views of the area -- and both are up on hills overlooking the villages of Haliburton and Minden.

A few months ago I received a post card from a friend in Australia. It was a picture of a bungee diver plummeting from a bridge that spans a huge gorge. On the back was the message "This is me".

Wanting to show off a bit of my own stomping grounds, I went out to buy a post card of the Highlands only to discover the local supply to be a bit limited. I could choose between a bird's-eye-view of Minden, a bird's-eye-view of Haliburton, a squirrel at Algonquin Park, a chipmunk at Algonquin Park and a Sunset at Algonquin Park.

Seeing as Algonquin Park is more than an hour's drive from here, the squirrel, chipmunk and sunset were ruled out. The bird's-eye-views, although quite pretty, really didn't say much, so these were also culled from the options.

Ultimately, I dug into an old shoe box and came up with a dandy old card of a tartan-clad lassie standing below the hydro dam on the Gull River. On the back, I wrote, "Having a wonderful time . . . All the girls in Haliburton dress like this. The guys wear kilts, too . . . and carry bagpipes."

I've since discovered that there are oodles of priceless old post cards of the area. It seems that back in the days before compact cameras, post cards were tremendously popular and the selection was fabulous. Kinmount, for example, has almost a dozen cards just on the "wet-day" theme. Virtually every lake in the county is featured in these old cards, which are chock full of character -- and, I've learned, are worth a few bucks to boot.

Here's a sampling of the great old cards.

One of the original bird's eye views of Minden. It seems these shots have always been popular. This card belongs to Carol Moffat, who came across a tremendous selection of cards at a recent auction. Like old hockey cards, though, people are realizing the value of post cards and the value of these treasures is on the rise.

This shot of the Beverly Park "oddity" in Moore Falls comes courtesy of Susan Clarkson. The note on the back provides an amusing look back in time: "Dear Mom and Dad, Well we finally arrived after a nine hour wait in Lindsay. Our bus didn't leave until 10 p.m. then the battery was so poor we had to drive the last part of the way without lights. Some trip. So far it has been pretty cool, but we canoed to Moore Falls today and got some cards. We'll see you later . . . P.S. They have a barn dance at the Falls on Thursday nights, so we hope to go. It should be fun" The postal markings over the 3c stamp date this card back to August of 1943.

New high school field will allow more parking

by Andy Holloway

The following brief items were discussed at the school board's management committee meeting last Tuesday.

Bradley's bog

An additional benefit of the new field hockey playing field, lovingly nicknamed Bradley's Bog by trustee LeRoy Eager after business administrator Jim Bradley, at the high school will be extra parking space for students.

A report from vice-principal Gary Brohman to the committee asked that the old second playing field be turned into a parking lot by the start of the new year. Concerns about traffic and parking along side roads leading into the education complex and the expected rise in high school enrolment are the main reasons for the extra parking lot.

The old field has a gravel base and is currently covered with a thin layer of

(more on page 32)

Trent-Severn report

The last eight days of May were very wet with about 9 centimetres of rain falling in the Haliburton area. This caused the Trent-Severn lakes to rise from 91.5 per cent on May 17 to 98.9 per cent by May 31. With some lakes exceeding full capacity, considerable flow increases were needed on the Gull and Burnt Rivers to discharge the surplus.

The water from Haliburton, plus the rain's effect on the Kawarthas resulted in a two-day closure of the navigation locks downstream of Fenelon Falls. High velocities were a threat to safe navigation.

Discharge was increased on the Otonabee to about 160 cubic metres per second during the closure to remove some of the excess.

Safer boating conditions were restored and the navigation locks resumed operation on June 4.

Zoning amendment hits a snag

by Andy Holloway

The following brief items were discussed at Stanhope council last Wednesday.

Fridge fees

Proposed provincial legislation regarding the disposal of refrigerant coolant could cause additional costs for Stanhope township. The legislation would require a licensed operator check all fridges to make sure there is no coolant left in them before the fridge can be taken to a dump.

Townships without manned dumps would be unable to monitor whether or not fridges with coolant were being dumped into their sites. Stanhope only has one manned dump site, that at Hawk Lake.

"With this legislation we will have to man all our landfill sites I feel," said Reeve Fred Gardner who is in favour of the legislation.

The fines are pretty stiff for those who cross the proposal. The maximum fine for an individual dumping a fridge without being checked is $10,000 escalating up to $25,000 for subsequent offences. Companies or corporations, like Stanhope, could pay up to $50,000 on first offence and up to $100,000 thereafter. County economic officer Mark Stagg will be making a presentation on behalf of Haliburton's townships to the government.

No grant given

Minden will not be receiving a donation for the use of its arena facilities by Stanhope residents. Minden township requested such a donation be made because 14 figure skaters and eight hockey players from Stanhope use the arena on a regular basis.

Deputy reeve Eleanor Harrison said Minden residents use Stanhope recreational facilities like the tennis courts, and in previous years the Soda Club was well-attended by Minden teenagers, so one balances the other.

In 1991 Stanhope gave the Minden recreation committee $500 while last year no donation was made.

Home renewal ending

The Ministry of Municipal Affairs will be asking townships to return home renewal program funds because the program is underused. Under the program, people could apply for help in buying or renovating their homes as long as they had a gross family income of less than $21,000. Since the criteria has not changed in ten years few people now qualify and the money has been collecting interest.

The funds will now be returned to the province and be used to lower Ontario's debt.

Stanhope has $50,000 on the books now, but has spent about $500,000 over the past ten years. There is still $40,000 still to be paid back by residents. The Ministry of Housing will compensate townships for the work involved in returning the funds.

Transient trading

Even though Stanhope has had few requests to set up refreshment vehicles within township boundaries, Gardner said this is the best time to create a policy concerning the transient traders. The township has had one request for a vehicle to be set up in front of a variety store on Maple Lake.

Clerk Bain said there isn't a specific bylaw concerning vendors right now although they can only be located on C1 or C2 commercially zoned property. Vendors can not be set up on township or residential property within the township.

A committee was formed to look at the policies adopted by Sherborne, Dysart and Minden and make a recommendation to council at the next meeting.

Sandy Lane snag

The zoning amendment that Sandy Lane Resort owner Joachim Matysek obtained from council at last month's meeting has been protested by seven residents. The deadline for registering a complaint was June 4 and clerk Gerald Bain said one letter, containing seven signatures, was received protesting the amendment which allows Matysek to erect a social centre on his property. However, the township also received four letters, containing seven signatures, in support of Matysek's proposal. Matysek will be making a decision on whether he can compromise with the unhappy residents or take it straight to the Ontario Municipal Board.

The Ministry of Health chipped in its two cents with a letter stating that before it can approve the plan a ground water impact study must be done. One of the key elements in the protesters argument is that a full environmental study should be done before any building be put up.

Ontario lottos hit $5 billion sales mark

Close to 50 recreational, historical and cultural attractions across Ontario, including the Haliburton Highlands Museum, will open their doors free of charge on August 2 to celebrate Ontario Lottery Corporation hitting of the $5 billion sales mark.

Ontario lotteries were established in 1975, and in recent years hospitals have become the major recipient of lottery profits. Proceeds have also been used to develop and promote sport, physical fitness, and cultural and recreational programs.

Nearly half the adult population in Ontario regularly buy lottery tickets. For every dollar they spend, about 33 cents goes to worthy projects across Ontario.

Other nearby institutions opening their doors include Muskoka Pioneer Village in Huntsville, Peterborough Centennial Museum and Archives as well as Toronto places like the Ontario Science Centre and the Royal Ontario Museum.

Wee Care after-school program to continue topsoil. The field will have to be gravelled over to bring it up to scratch and that job will be tendered out. The money for the gravel will come out of the $50,000 that was allocated for the new field in 1991. Under $20,000 has been spent so far said Bradley.

As for the new field, Bradley reported that it is now seeded and that "there is a slight tinge of green showing, but I think it may be pollen."

Stouffer update

On June 25, the portables at Archie Stouffer Elementary School will be moved to allow for construction of the new addition which Bradley said "should be ready to roll after that." The portables will be moved up against the hill on the west side of the school's property. One casualty of the move is the Haliburton Westside Jug City soccer team who will be forced to move to the high school field.

The total cost of the addition will be $5.4 million when asbestos removal, architect and survey fees are added in with the contractor's price of $4.7 million. So far the board has paid out $295,000 to the architects as well as for soil testing and some surveying.

We care

Wee Care's after-school program has been successful during its trial run this year and the group will be allowed to run its program again next year pending full board approval later this month. The management committee voted to recommend Wee Care continue after Bradley said the program "ran extremely smoothly, it's been run without any problems at all."

The program is run out of J.D. Hodgson as an after school day care

Program aims to improve veterans' lives

The Veterans Independence Program (VIP) is aimed at helping qualified veterans to maintain or improve their quality of life by assisting them to remain healthy and independent in their homes.

Benefits from VIP are available to eligible veterans to cover the cost of the following services:

Transportation - for doctor's appointments and in some cases banking, shopping and social activities.

Ambulatory health care - specialized services available through a clinic.

Home adaption - alterations to a residence to be able to carry out the normal activities of daily living.

Home care - groundskeeping, housekeeping and direct patient care.

Adult residential care and nursing home intermediate care - services in an approved institution.

For further information contact your nearest office of the Haliburton County Information Centre or Legion Service Officer.

and had 17 children enrolled. The parents pay a fee to have their children looked after until they can pick them up. There is little cost to the board and Wee Care does not pay rent for using the school's facilities.

Boiler bubbles

Replacing the high school's old boiler could cost the board $30,000. The 32-year-old boiler failed two weeks when some coils inside ruptured. It has been patched to allow it to keep operating until the end of the school year, but Bradley said the boiler will not pass the annual inspection test for the upcoming year. The board could repair the boiler at an estimated cost of $15,000 or replace it for double that figure. Bradley said aren't any government emergency grants to cover the boiler costs although he would apply to jobsOntario to see whether they can use unused funds earmarked for other projects.

Tender awards

The committee awarded tenders, subject to board approval, for the following items:

* Roof on a J.D. Hodgson portable was awarded to Northland Construction of Coboconk in the amount of $6609. The three Haliburton area tenders were about $3,000 higher prompting chairman Leonard Salvatori to say it's unfortunate Haliburton firms price themselves out of the running.

* Carpeting in the amount of $18,052 went to Cordell Carpets of Haliburton, well below the budget of $24,500 said Bradley.

* The tender for the roof at the high school will be closed prior to the board meeting this month in order that work can be completed this summer.

Man found floating in Burnt River identified using dental records

The following items were investigated by Coboconk OPP.

Floating body

On June 6 at about 12:45 p.m., a body was found floating on the Burnt River approximately three kilometres downstream from the village of Burnt River.

The body has been determined to be that of Gordon Edward Hodgkinson, 71, of Burnt River who was reported missing last October.

Positive identification was confirmed at a post mortem examination conducted at the Centre of Forensic Science in Toronto last Monday. A comparison of dental records were required to determine identification.

The autopsy revealed the cause of death to be a massive heart attack. Police do not suspect foul play.

Thefts

In Coboconk: A 1991 easy loader trailer with Ontario license J48089 loaded with 16 foot Imperial Bowrider boat with a 50 horsepower Evinrude motor.

In Kinmount: 14 foot green fibreglass canoe, Pioneer model P20 chain saw.

Hyland seniors have an all-rhubarb festival

Saturday we were very glad to have Jock Mavor back with us again after a lengthy illness. It was so enjoyable having Jock, his omnichord and old songs again. Thank you sincerely.

Sunday, Stella Burch read to us. She started a new book. We appreciate her reading very much. In the evening the Chapel service was taken by Reverend John Burgess, with June Mason providing the organ music. We thank both John and June from our hearts.

Monday we followed the regular routine, and Tuesday Reverend Brian Parker conducted the chapel service. There was a good number attending who thank Rev. Parker very much for being with us.

Wednesday was rather special since we had a Rhubarb Festival in the afternoon. On Tuesday, Doris Robertson-Alton went to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons for the rhubarb, then Doris did the cooking. Tea biscuits were made by Lillian Harrison. At 2 p.m. we had a discussion on the history of rhubarb, as we remember it, and afterward we sampled the finished work. We had rhubarb punch, stewed rhubarb followed by rhubarb chutney and tea biscuits. It was all delicious.

We had made a list of all the dishes made from rhubarb. It was hard to believe there were so many. Thanks for all the behind-the-scenes helpers.

Our tea party held each Thursday, was provided and served by the West Guilford Gospel Church ladies, who were Doris Cooper, Lorna Stackhouse, Grace Shacklaar, Byrl Shacklaar, Sue Marnie and Heather Bonham. Sue Marnie played beautiful piano music during the tea and social time. There were several well behaved children. Those who could, helped with the serving. We truly thank everyone who helped us have a pleasant afternoon.

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

As usual, on Tuesday evening Corinne Arsenault organized three tables of euchre for the residents who need something to pass their time. Thank you Corinne.

We would like to convey our condolences to the family and friends due to the passing away of Myrtle O'Halloran on May 31, and to the family and friends of Claudia Bolender who passed away on June 4.

Friday was Happy Hour. Charlie Hadley and Carmen Peters provided the entertainment with Doris Robertson-Alton at the piano.

Carmen step-danced for us as well. Don and Ellen Holden, May Guillemain and Pearl Cowen kindly tended to our needs. We sincerely thank everyone for the happy afternoon.

Tea Party

Hyland Crest honoured six of its volunteer residents at a tea party last Thursday afternoon. Lillian Harrison, Alice Todd, Jean Taylor, Winnifred Barnum, Nora Groves and Reginald Booth all help out around the seniors' home in various capacities making life better for the rest of the residents. Unfortunately, only five could make the picture. The volunteers received an appreciation gift as well as well-deserved praise at the party.

Genealogists need help from area residents

by June Partridge

The Haliburton Highlands Genealogy group gathered at the Minden library for their first meeting of 1993 to review the holdings that have been collected and donated. Several new members attended looking for ideas to help with their research. Letters seeking information regarding local residents of the past were received and distributed.

A letter was received from John MacDonald, the student who was doing his thesis on the settlers of Bobcaygeon Road, informing us that his work is almost done and he will be sending a copy of his thesis and his field notes to place in the library. This is exciting news for all local history buffs and genealogists searching in our area. Thanks go to all those who offered information to John.

A local voter's list for 1922 was submitted as were Snowdon voter lists for 1897, 1898, 1899 and 1891. Family charts for Henderson, Rogers and Kent families have also been submitted. We are always looking for additions to our reference material. If you find any old lists of voters or historical data we would appreciate the donation of such items. We are also looking for a donation of either the new book about the Railway or the Hodgson Family History book.

We are in the process of making decisions on which genealogy resource books to add to our collection with the funds raised at last year's raffling of a Basket of Crafts. Suggestions should be submitted before the next meeting on June 30.

Records of the birth, marriage and deaths in Ontario from 1869 to 1921 have been filmed in the Salt Lake City LDS Library, but they can not be circulated until 1994 when the Archives of Ontario completes their filming. We understand the United Church will not allow the LDS Library to film their records. Any United Church member who disagrees with this decision should contact the United Church head office at 85 Sinclair Ave., Toronto.

Cemetery coordinator Cecil Rowe is recovering from a heart attack and so plans for the spring cemetery recordings are on hold. We wish Cec a speedy recovery. If you know of any old pioneer graves in the area please get in touch with us at Box 567, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0. We are anxious to know about these while we can still decipher the names and so that we may bring them to the attention of Cemetery Boards which have a legal obligation to preserve them according to the revised Cemetery Act.

I have just returned from attending the 1993 OGS Conference held in Toronto. Topics highlighted the 200th anniversary of York (now called Toronto). The first 100 years were highlighted by speakers, bus and walking tours, and workshops for beginners and computer genealogists were well attended.

Two exciting events occurred to add special interest to the event. The first was the arrival of Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor Henry Jackman who spoke with enthusiasm at the reception. The second event was a juried exhibition of textile crafts inspired by family history called 'Threads of Family History'. Three exhibits shared the top award including Wendy Bateman's use of material from her aunt's clothing along with the labels of the clothes to create a wonderful backdrop for her aunt's picture. Bateman's work was recently on display at the Haliburton Highlands Gallery in the Best of Member's Show recently.

Happy 50th Anniversary!

Miss Margaret Roughton, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.A. Roughton, of 30 Elm-crescent, Bentley, was married on Saturday at SS Joseph and Teresa Church, Woodlands, to Flt. Sgt. C. Reng, Virtuti Militari (V.C.), Cross of Valour with three bars, Polish Air Force, of Lwow, Poland. That announcement appeared 50 years in an England newspaper. The two now live in Minden and celebrated their 50th anniversary on June 5.

New forest growth myths live on in B.C.

Most of the major environmental problems confronting us today have resulted from the rapid expansion of technological capabilities in such areas as forestry, nuclear energy and agriculture since the Second World War.

For example, almost all trees logged in Canada have been cut in the past two decades. This sudden technological assault on the environment has occurred with little forethought about the human and environmental costs.

Today, a serious environmental impact assessment (EIA) is expensive and time consuming. Because time means money, anything impeding a project is resisted. Furthermore, credible EIAs must go beyond traditional boundaries.

For example, a proper EIA of dams on the Great Whale River system in northern Quebec must examine the repercussions on weather and climate, bogs, marine mammals, fish and migratory birds, soil and ocean currents.

And Great Whale is just one of several rivers flowing into Hudson Bay, so an EIA should include other dams from Manitoba to Labrador. Few, if any EIAs cut across such disciplinary and political. To make things worse, our knowledge about the planet's biological and physical matrix is so limited we can not predict the consequences of most technologies.

Thus, had an EIA been carried out on nuclear power in 1945, it could not possibly have anticipated the Cold War or the spectacular growth in number, explosive capacity and delivery methods of nuclear weapons. Only years later did scientists discover radioactive fallout, strontium-90 build up in bones and the threat of nuclear winter.

Instead of acknowledging our ignorance by slowing down and scaling back our use of technology, we rush to maximize immediate benefits. And often, when we do recognize the downside of a practice, those profiting try to avoid discussion about serious remedial action.

A blatant example is the forest industry's response to widespread criticism of clear-cut logging. For years, informed critics have argued old-growth forests and local logging communities can not be sustained by current practices.

In British Columbia, almost all logging still involves clear cutting old growth forests. Companies carry on while avoiding the issue of long-term sustainability.

Perhaps the most pernicious rationalization of clear cutting large tracts of old-growth is that it reduces global warming. Here's how the reasoning goes.

Carbon dioxide, a greenhouse gas, is absorbed by trees for photosynthesis and stored as wood. As long as more carbon is "fixed" this way than is given off, less counter greenhouse-gas production.

While ancient trees of a "decadent" or "overmature" forest contain enormous amounts of

by David Suzuki

carbon, they grow slowly and often decay, so they may release more carbon dioxide than they take up.

Thus, it is argued, by clear cutting an ancient forest and replacing them with young trees, fixed carbon is kept out of circulation as lumber. Actively growing young planted trees will absorb even more carbon dioxide.

It may sound good, but the evidence doesn't back it up. It is true mature trees may grow more slowly and decay, but carbon continues to be fixed up by the biologically active floor and soil of old growth forests.

Of 327 tonnes of carbon cut in one hectare of a typical temperate forest, up to 187 tonnes may be released back into the atmosphere through paper production, burning and decomposition.

Computer analysis suggests it takes at least 250 years before a second-growth forest stores as much carbon as the old growth it replaced. Over twice as much carbon is stored in a 450-year-old Douglas fir/hemlock natural stand as in a 60-year-old Douglas fir plantation. And foresters aim to cut plantation trees every 70 to 90 years so they would never hold even 50 per cent as much carbon as old growth.

Harmon et al in an article in Science (volume 247, page 699) deduce that "conversion of old-growth forests to young plantations invariably reduces carbon storage, even when structural components in buildings are considered."

Destruction of old-growth forests in the Pacific Northwest, they conclude, has added up to 1.8 billion tonnes of carbon dioxide to the atmosphere in the past 100 years.

This area represents a mere 0.017 per cent of the planet's land surface, yet its conversion from old growth may have contributed two per cent of the total carbon released into the upper atmosphere during this time. The only way a tree plantation could match the amount of carbon stored in an old-growth forest would be by becoming old-growth forest themselves.

It is specious to suggest clear cutting relieves the threat of global warming. It merely delays confronting the real criticism that rich, diverse forests can not be sustained by current logging practices.

Next week, I'll discuss recent research that reveals a shocking defect in trees planted after clear cutting.

IN MEMORIAM

HORSLEY, Garth Leroy - In loving memory of our dear husband, father and poppa, who passed away June 12, 1991. There's a bridge of golden memories From here to heaven above, It keeps you very close to us It's called the bridge of love. Every day no matter where Deep in our hearts you are always there, Forget you, we never will You left a place no one can fill, Our love for you will always keep It cannot fade, it lies so deep. Forever loved, so sadly missed by wife Shirley, children Judy, Jay, Dawn, Michele and Susan, their spouses and grandchildren.

COLTMAN - In loving memory of my dear husband Ian who passed away June 17, 1987. Nothing can ever take away The love a heart holds dear, Fond memories linger every day Remembrance keeps him near. Always remembered by Mary and family.

ALTON, Leslie Sr. - Remembering Dad on Father's Day who has been gone for a year and a half. To remember you is easy, We do it every day Missing you is a heartache That never goes away. Each morning that we awake We stare at you on the wall, No one knows how much we miss you Or how many tears do fall. A year and a half has slipped by But we're always at your grave, The boys and us miss your face And wish you were here today. Sadly missed, but never forgotten by daughter Kelly, son-in-law Don, grandsons Shane and Nathan.
